

Raising Goats and Sheep Workshop and Ranch Tour

Learn how to raise small herd animals in a sustainable way that supports the rancher and helps the environment, while providing healthy and delicious food to the community.

Learn about animal care and production tips from the perspective of a rancher, researcher, conservationist and veterinarian. Learn how ranching practices can help the Monterey Bay National Marine Sanctuary.

FREE EVENT: INCLUDES TOUR OF MONKEYFLOWER RANCH & MILKING SHED

RSVP (to save your spot): Pam Krone
pam.krone@noaa.gov or 831-647-4238

Date: Thursday, September 27, 2018

Time: 9:00 - 12:30

Location: Monkeyflower Ranch
1481 San Miguel Canyon Road
Royal Oaks, CA

What to Bring: Shoes for walking (no sandals), sunscreen, hat, layers, water,

University of California
Agriculture and Natural Resources

Cooperative Extension

NATIONAL MARINE
SANCTUARIES
MONTEREY BAY

Topics

- Sheep and goat nutritional needs
- Veterinary advice and suggestions for health care and treatment
- Targeted grazing, brush control, poisonous plants and what to do if ingested
- Organic methods for sheep health care and organic sheep products
- Selling at Farmers Markets and to CSAs.
- Soil improvement and carbon sequestration on working lands through conservation practices

Speakers: Rebecca King (rancher), Sarah Lopez (rancher), Dr. William Seales (veterinarian), Devii Rao (UCCE), Pam Krone (MBNMS)